1. Legislation

The Equality Act 2010 provides a single, consolidated source of discrimination law. It simplified the law by removing anomalies and inconsistencies that had developed over time in the previous legislation, and it extended the protection from discrimination in certain areas.

The law on disability discrimination is different from the rest of the Act in a number of ways. The overriding principle of equalities legislation is generally one of equal treatment. However, the provisions in relation to disability are different in that you may – and often must – treat a disabled person more favourably than a non-disabled person.

2. Definition

According to the Equality Act 2010, a person has a disability if:

- He or she has a physical or mental impairment, and
- The impairment has a substantial and long-term adverse effect on his or her ability to carry out normal day-to-day activities.

For the purposes of the Act, these words have the following meanings:

- Substantial means more than minor or trivial.
- Long-term means that the effect of the impairment has lasted or is likely to last for at least twelve months (there are special rules covering recurring or fluctuating conditions).
- Normal day-to-day activities include everyday things like eating, washing, walking and going shopping.

3. Reasonable adjustments

Great Doddington Primary School has a duty to make reasonable adjustments for disabled pupils when something we do places a disabled pupil at a substantial disadvantage to other pupils. When this is the case, we will take reasonable steps to address that disadvantage.

We will also provide an auxiliary aid for a disabled pupil when it would be reasonable to do so, and where such an aid would alleviate any substantial disadvantage the pupil faces in comparison to their non-disabled peers.

The reasonableness of adjustments will be based on the individual circumstances of each case. Factors to consider may include cost, the effectiveness of the adjustment, its effect on other pupils, health and safety requirements, and whether auxiliary aids can be made available through the SEN route.

4. Aims and objectives

Through this Accessibility Plan, Great Doddington Primary School plans, over time, to increase the accessibility of provision for all pupils, staff and visitors to the school. It aims to:

- ✓ Improve access to the physical environment of the school, adding specialist facilities as necessary. This covers improvements to the physical environment of the school and physical aids to access education.
- ✓ Increase access to the curriculum – expanding the curriculum as necessary – to ensure that pupils with a disability are as equally prepared for life as able-bodied pupils. This covers teaching and learning and the wider curriculum of the school, such as participation in clubs and school trips. It also covers the provision of specialist aids and equipment, which may assist these pupils in accessing the curriculum.
- ✓ Improve the delivery of written information to pupils, staff, parents and visitors with disabilities, including handouts, timetables, textbooks and information about the school and school events.
